ruined by the crowd as the owners dropped to the floor and hid their heads behind chairs and railings.

THE VISITORS WERE AFRAID. In the gallery from where the revolver was being fired not a move was made by the visitors to disarm the crazy man. As one broker put it: "Our visitors might have let that fellow keep shooting at us for the rest of the session before they would have made a move to stop him. I suppose, they were so surprised and frightened that they did not know what to do. It was lucky for us that Tom Barrett made that daring rush upstairs and into the gallery or more of us might have been hit. I don't | Special to the Indianapolis Journal. think that there is anything from a dynamite fire cracker to a Krupp gun, that Tom Barrett wouldn't face if he thought that he ought to." D. T. Helm, a well-known vessel agent, was right to the west of the wheat pit when the first shot was fired. "As quick as I neard the shot," said he, "I glanced at the gallery and saw that the revolver was pointed directly at me. I started on a dead run to the westward, keeping my eye all the time on the revolver. It was with great satisfaction that I noticed that the fellow wasn't following me with his gun, but was pointing it, I should say, twenty feet east of the spot where I started from. stopped still and waited for the shot, it came, and once more I set my eyes on that gun. Once more it pointed in my direction, and I started the other way. In about a half second I was out of its range and again stopped. You may depend upon it that I was ready for a quick move it a revolver had been pointed in my direction again. It reminded me of the old game I used to play when I was a boy, which was called 'sock 'em.' I never once thought of getting in behind anything, for it seemed as if I could dodge him better in open fire. Now that it is all over it seems a laughable matter, but it was not then, by a long shot," Hugh MacMillen, agent of the New York Central, stood directly below the man when the first shot was fired. He said that, like every one else in his vicinity, retreat seemed the better part of valor, and he ran at full speed toward the wash room, where he watched the other shots.

Thomas Barrett, who became the hero of the board by his courageous act in rushing into the gallery, has long been known as an athlete, and a man who is atraid of nothing that walks. "It would have made no difference to Barrett." a leading commission man empty or not. I don't suppose that Barrett ever thought for minute whether all the had been fired from the revolver. He would have rushed up to him, I have no doubt, with a loaded revolver pointed directly at his head. This is not the first time that Barrett has distinguished himself by courageous daring. His friends can tell many stories wherein Barrett has played the part of a hero. Of all the men on the board I do not think there is one that is quicker in action or more feariess than Barrett, and I am in favor of him as our next president of the Board of Trade."

THE HERO'S STORY. Mr. Barrett modestly disclaimed any special bravery. "I was standing in the corn pit," he said, "when I heard the report of a pistor. It was repeated before I could locate the shooter. He was standing in the little gallery under the clock looking over the balustrade. I rushed outside the hall and ran up the north stairs to the gallery. When I got there there was nobody in the gallery except the man I was after. All the others had rushed out of the gallery when the first shot was fired. I caught hold of the fellow by the back of | the text "Ye have not chosen me, but I the coat and grabbed hold of the empty re-volver he held in his hand. He must have been taken by surprise, as he did not make any resistance for about a minute. Then I took him down stairs and turned him over to officer Eustis." The president of the Board of Trade, Charles Hamill, had a lively experience. "I was over in the northwest corner of the floor," he said, "when I first heard the shots. Three were fired before I knew where they came from. Then, in looking around, I noticed the man in the south gallery under the clock. I dodged out of range, for he was firing towards my end of the floor. Then I saw Mr. Barrett rush up to the gallery.'

Mr. Hamili was asked if visitors would be prevented from entering the galleries in consequence of the shooting. "I don't know that any action will be taken," he replied. "But, personally, have no present intention of issuing any

Broker A. O. Mason, who was in the wheat pit during the shooting, said: "The fellow with the revolver acted in every way like a sure-enough lunatic. His hair was in disorder, and every time he would shoot he would laugh very loud."

"I want to talk to a reporter," said the prisoner to Police Lieutenant Golden, as he was led down stairs in the Harrisonstreet police station. "My name is Cassius Beidin," the man said; "I am a carriage painter and live at No. 366 Lasalle avenue. I've been under hypnotic influences for three years. Three years ago a man named Jones hypnotized me at No. 229 Horon street. Hypnotism is slow, and it has only been a short time since I reached the exalted state. I was in the vulgar state for a long time. I have visited the Board of Trade frequently, I knew I was in bondage. It has been a struggle for bread with all of us, but when they began to sell my soul in the Board of Trade today, I resisted. Before they sold my soul they sold my two children, who are in Philadelphia. I have a wife in Philadelphia, besides two children. We are all in bondage. It is a struggle for bread."

Beldin lived with his sister, Mrs. A Williams, a dressmaker, and his brother. T. A. Beldin, a speculator on the Board of Trade. According to his sister, domestic troubles unseated his mind five years ago. when he was divorced from his wife at Camden, N. J. She thinks that he acted to-day under the belief that his brother was being robbed by other traders on 'Change, The man, only a few months ago, was released from the asylum for the insane at Kankakee, Iil.

As soon as the physicians arrived they examined Bennett and at first pronounced him fatally shot. Streams of blood flowed from the unfortunate man's neck, and a gaping wound presented itself. Bennett lay on the table gasping for breath. Roswell was picked up senseless, and laid on a table. He was standing behind the St. Louis wire giving some instructions when the shooting commenced. This did not deter him from continuing his work, but the third shot, fired wildly by the man in the gallery, struck him in the mouth and lodged under his tongue. He is married and Twenty to Thirty Deaths Daily on an Italian Steamer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 .- Captain Black, of the steamship Hogarth, which arrived in the lower bay to-day from Santos, reports that while at Santos, on Sept. 20, he was informed that the Italian steamer Vincenzo Flori, which sailed from Genoa on Aug. 24 for Rio Janeiro loaded with immigrants, and which had been unable to secure admission to the ports of Brazil because she had cholera on board, had for some days been lying outside the harbor of Santos in a helpless condition. The deaths on board the plague-stricken steamer were reported to be from twenty to thirty daily. The bodies of the unfortunate victime were thrown overboard and washed ashore, near Santos, to the great alarm of the inhabitants. The steamship had previously been unable to secure permission to land at Rio de Janeiro, the port to which she was bound, and at the island of La Grande, sixty-eight miles southwest of Rio, she had been ordered to put to sea without delay. The steamer then proceeded to Santos, where they also refused to let her enter the port.

Delphi Burglars Overtaken at Burrows and One Is Shot.

Strange Story About the Bloomington Suicide-Friends' Yearly Meeting-Other State News.

DELPHI, Ind., Sept. 27 .- Early this morning two burglars were discovered carrying their booty from Lyon's hardware store in this city. Pursuit was given and this afternoon the burglars were overtaken near Burrows, ten miles east. They were armed to the teeth, and for two hours they fought their pursuers running battle. Finally one of them fell badly wounded. He was brought back here and jailed. His companion succeeded in reaching the heavy timber, but was badly crippled. A band of farmers armed with shotguns have surrounded the timber, and the capture of the other bandit is honriy expected. They are both strangers to this locality.

THE BLOOMINGTON SUICIDE.

The Body Identified and a Singular Story Told by a Half-Brother. Special to the Indispapolis Journal.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The body found north of town yesterday was identified to-day by Herschel Sharp, of Salem, as that of a man giving his name as Marcellus Sharp, but as he didn't have the financial means, he allowed the body to be buried here. Herschel Sharp tells a mysterious story regarding the deceased, though he has no theory as to the cause of the suicide. He says that about three weeks ago the man came to his house at Salem, and said he was a relative, but further than this he would give no informa-He remained two weeks, paid all his expenses, and left some money. A day or two before leaving he expressed a wish to visit the cemetery where the father of Herschell Sharp was buried, and when he had been shown the grave he remarked that he was now rewarded after many months of search, but further than this would say nothing, only that he would write details. He left last Wednesday, and on Saturday a letter came saying be was a half brother: that his tather had left him and his mother in Illinois when he was a small boy: that his mother's last request when she died a year ago was that he find his father if alive. Since then he had been searching, and had finally succeeded.

Orthodox Friends' Yearly Meeting.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The Orthodox Friends' Yearly Meeting opened this morning at 8:30 o'clock, with devotional services led by Carrie Nordyke, of New Vienna. William Thornburg offered some thoughts on "Justification," "The New Birth," "Christ's Work in Man," and urged the absolute necessity of work on the part of the Christian. Carrie Nordyke spoke from have chosen you, and ordained you, that should go and bring forth fruit." The remainder of the time was spent in testimony and song. At 10 o'clock the meeting assembled in separate session. R. W. Douglas spoke on the importance of assembling a religious body and of being kept in a place where one can best exemplify Christ on earth. F. W. Thomas, Daniel Hill and others spoke of the divine source of all wisdom. Murray Spiritly referred to Henry Clay's encomium on the Indiana Yearly Meeting, characterizing it as the most remarkable legislative body he ever attended. At 11:10 Clerk Ellis read the minutes and called the roll of delegates and alternates from the quarterly meetings. Several quarters were found to be without representation. The credentials of visiting Friends were read as follows: Isaac Sharp. London, England; Levi Mills, Wilmington, O.; John Pennington, Eartham, la.; J. Matson Thomas, North Denver, Col. The venerable lease Sharp will speak in the meeting on Friday. A committee on returning ministers was appointed as follows: Eli Jay, Daniel Lawrence, Joseph R. Hunt, Leander Woodward, Eliz Pheips, Alfred Brown and Elkanah Bard. Committee on gospel service: Josiah Bogue, Joel O. Verman, Benjamin Johnson, M. M. Benford, Robert W. Donglass, Allen Jay, Timothy Nicholson and Samuel B. Hill. A committee of thirty-seven, Asa T. Baldwin, chairman, was appointed to prepare epistles to the corresponding yearly meetings.

Prisoner Breaks Jail at Columbus.

pecial to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 27 .- To-day, as Sheriff Lucas's son went into the cell department of the jail to bring away the rays on which the dinners of the prisoners had been served, he was surprised to see that Harry Williams, confined and awaiting trial for grand larcony, had succeeded in getting out of his cell into the hallway of the jail. Williams at once dashed out of the jail at the front door. This completely rattled the young deputy, and he rushed to the large door to prevent the escape of other prisoners, one of whom was contined for wife murder. When Williams reached the front of the sail he showed wonderful coolness, walking down the large steps and across the street, where many men were passing, without exciting alarm. When he reached a back street he broke into a run and escaped. Williams has a wife in Indianapolis. Sheriff Lucas is in pursuit of him, and hopes to again laud him behind the bars. He escaped from his cell by means of a key made from a piece of wire which he picked up in the jail yard a few days ago. Williams is about forty-five years old, five feet tall, has a brown mustache and shows signs of dissipation, having squandered a fortune of more than tifteen thousand left him by his father some Runting for Train-Robber Hardin.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BRAZIL, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The town of Staunton and the surroundings thereabouts was a scene of intense excitement last night. St. Louis and Centralia (III.) detectives leading a posse of armed men scoured the little hamlet and the surrounding country from twilight until atmost break of the morning in search of Joseph Hardin one of the bandits who held up an express train at Centralia, Hardin was shot in the shoulder, but succeeded in escaping. Unless he immediately surrenders he will be killed on sight. He is charged with many crimes, and should be be captured alive no doubt he will spend the remainder of his days behind iron bars. It is said Hardin was seen in Staunton yesterday evening, and it is further claimed he went to a friend's house and asked for cloths to bind up the wounds he received in the Centralia fight. He has several well-to-do relatives at Staunton and they were awakened from their slumbers by the officers, who quietly told their mission and proceeded to make a search. The desperado

Student Burroughs Gets Two Years. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The jury in the Ward Burroughs case returned a verdict of guilty and gave him two years in the penitentiary. Burroughs was a student at Wabash College, and stole a letter from his room mate, A. Le Roy Piser, about June 22. In this letter was a check for $50. from Piser's father, of Shosbam, N. Y. Burroughs went to Logansport, and, passing himself off as A. Le Roy Piser, called at the State National Bank to get the check cashed. Identification being demanded, a telegram was sent to Shosham to authorize the payment without identification. L. C. Piser, thinking it was his son, wired back to do so. The check was paid, and Burroughs indorsed Piser's name on the back. Then he went to Chicago, where he was Lawless Attack on an F. M. B. A. Meeting. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SALEM, Ind., Sept. 27 .- While the F. M. B. A. lodge at the village of Lamler, in this county, was in session Saturday night, some one fired a shot through the secondstory window of the hall where they were meeting, barely missing President Spurgeon. Some one extinguished the lights. and, it is claimed, several shots were fired before the members could rush down stairs. It is reported that shots were exchanged between the members and the retreating assailants after reaching the outside of the school building. No one was hit, but one or two sustained bruises from falling in getting downstairs. The lodge tried to get Carter's bloodhounds to follow the miscreants, but they were at Washington. Monroe township is much stirred up over this attempted assassination.

The Killing at Valparaiso,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. VALPARAISO, Ind., Sept. 27 .- Coroner Coates to-day completed the taking of testimony in the inquest on the remains of Frank Robinson, the normal college sais robber, who was killed by the pursuing party of citizens, Saturday afternoon, The verdict which will be filed to-morrow contains the evidence of twenty witnesses, and is very voluminous. The coroner fully exonerates Nathan Howe, who fired the fatal shot, from all responsibility. Clair Robinson, brother of the dead man, who was captured after being wounded by Howe's weapon, was brought before Judge Parks to-day for hearing, but at the request of State's Attorney Dowdell the case was continued until Friday.

A Relative Suspected.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 27 .- Another day has passed in the search for the Wratten murderers without any important developments. Two squads were detailed today to search for the weapons, but although the wells and mines and every nock for miles were explored not the least evidence was found. It is now certain that the weapons were carefully hidden lest they lead to an exposure and their discoyery would in all probability prove a posttive clew. There can be no doubt that the murderer's motive was personal gain and grave suspicion rests on a relative who would inherit the Wratten property.

A Horde of Bungry Democrats, Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Sept. 27 .- Numerous Democratic applicants are making pilgrimage to Franklin county every day to see the new collector. Twelve hundred and fourteen have applied to him for positions, with several out townships to hear from. He has the appointment of thirtyeight officers. A prominent Democrat today was making a lively kick against the appointment of James E. Mendenhall clerk of the committee on Indian affairs, He claimed that Mendeuball had had enough, and that there were other Democrats that were entitled to something.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The Boons-Rears murder trial, that was expected to occupy the attention of the Circuit Court for several days longer, came abruptly to a close last night at 11:30. The jury had been out since 6 o'clock, and, half an hour before midnight, brought in a verdict of not guilty. The acquittal was on the grounds that Mrs. Boone shot young Rears in defense of her home. The killing occurred at Cambridge City some two months ago. W. F. Mesker and H. C. Fox conducted the DECATUR, Ind., Sept. 27.-This morning while workmen were excavating a cellar in this city they came on a box about two feet under the ground that contained a human skeleton, with long hair and clothing, It is on a lot where a doggery has been run for some years, until last fall, when the old building burned. The skeleton is evidently that of a woman, and it is supposed that she was foully dealt with and buried in the rear of the old building. The coroner is making an investigation.

Eagle Knitting Company Fails. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELKHART, Ind., Sept. 27.-The offices of the Eagle Knitting Company, of this city, were placed in the hands of receiver M. U. Demerast to-day. Assets. $104,000; liabilities, $70,000. The financial stringency and mability to get money at the banks made the appointing of a receiver necessary. The receiver will continue the business, and it is expected that it will work out all right. The establishment is one of the most extensive in northern Indiana.

Blew Out the Gas.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PETERSBURG, Ind., Sept. 27 .- Howard Adams, of this place, was found dead in bed at the Arlington Hotel, Chicago, this morning. Several of the Kessler, Ind., Bandits Believed to Be in Custody.

Three Men Arrested Near Chicago and Another at Butler-Confession of Fireman La Liberty.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 .- Five men whose actions aroused the suspicions of the police, led the Kensington officers a wild chase today, through the thinly settled district around the shores of Lake Calumet. Three were arrested and are being held at the Hyde Park police station. Lieutenant Bassett, who superintended capture, thinks the men may have been implicated in the Kessler, Ind., train robbery. His belief is strengthened by stories told by Michigan Central railway employes. He sent promptly for Express Messenger Hamblin, who saw the robbers, and for General Superindent Wygart, who has been giving the case close attention. The prisoners gave these names: John Wilson, John Graham and James King. They say they have been employed as railway hands in Kansas, and have just reached Chicago. An ex-convict, named Lewis, to-night told the police that they had three of the men implicated in the Kessler robbery, and said that the confederates of the men now in custody are named Buckley, "Cunning" Cooley, Curtis, Rafferty and Hagerty. The police think Lewis is only advertising A dispatch from Fort Wayne says: Lake

La Liberty Confesses.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 27 .- Geo. La Liberty made a full confession of the Mineral Range train robbery at Houghten to-day on preliminary examination. He awore that King, Butler and himself stopped the train, and that he ran the engine while King and Butler robbed the express car. The money was taken to La Liberty's boarding house at Houghton, placed in a trunk and the trunk checked to Marquette. La Liberty came down on the same train and gave the trunk check to Ed Hogan. The trunk was delivered to the house of La Liberty's father and the next morning was found to be broken open and all but $1.100 of the money was abstracted. La Liberty also swore that Ed Hogan told him that his brother Dominick, the express messenger, knew that the robbery was to take place. King, Butler, La Liberty and the two Hogans were held for trial in $10,000 bonds each. La Liberty denied knowing what had become of the bulk of the money. Who robbed the robbers is still an unsolved problem.

Not Their First "Hold Up." Sr. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.-It is almost a certainty that the men implicated in the hold up of the Illinois Central train at Centralia, on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 20, were the same who on the two different occasions held up the Mobile and Ohio train at Forest Lawn, just beyond the city limits of East St. Louis. The police are in possession of the svidence, which indicates the complicity of at least two of the Centralia robbers in the Forest Lawn affair, namely, O'Dwyer and Hardin. Charles Gunn, the third man, now in jail on a charge of robbing a jewelry store, has been positively identified by six persons, including the engineer and firemen of the train. This leaves but one other man at large, and the detectives are hot on his trail, thanks to information furnished by O'Dwyer's mistress, Belle Edwards, who has given his name to the police.

Trainmen Armed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. St. Louis, Sept. 27.-The frequency train robberies has caused the railroad and express companies here to arm their crews, and it is said that not a train leaves this city in any direction without a guard prepared for action. The guards are under command of picked men from the railway secret service, and are selected for their nerve and ability to shoot.

Striking Switchmen Return to Work. Louisville, Sept. 27.-All of the striking switchmen on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in this city, save two, went back to work this morning. The engineers also returned to work. The understanding is. however, that if the machinists' strike is not settled by to-morrow morning the switchmen will all go on strike again and remain out until some agreement is made or until they are ordered back by the union. It is also understood among the strikers that the freight engineers will re fuse to run with nonunion switchmen in the event of such being employed.

Readjustment of the Scale Desired.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—The Carnegie Steel Company posted a notice at the Homestead steel works to-day that a readinstment of the scale, to take effect on Jan. 1. 1894, was desired, in accordance with the conditions of the agreement governing that plant. This is one of the points which caused the strike a year ago. The company wanted the time for readjustment to come about the close of the year, while the Amalgamated Association insisted that the scale be closed in June before.

Prisoner Shot to Death,

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 27 .- Calvin Stewart, the negro who murdered a white man near Langley a short time since, was captured vesterday in a swamp above Langley by Constable Augustine. Last night the constable and a few friends started to bring the prisoner to Aiken. When they had left Laugley about a mile in the rear they were surprised by a mob of about fifteen or twenty masked men. Before any resistance could be made the prisoner was taken from them and riddled with bullets.

ROTH-UHL. The marriage of Miss Kate M. Uhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Uhl, and Mr. Frank J. Roth, of Louisville, took No. 781 North Illinois street. The ceremony was pronounced by Father Scheideler, of St. Mary's Church, in the presence of the relatives and most intimate friends of of the family. The bridal party was preceded to the parlor by the ushers, Messrs, Edward Uhl, brother of the bride, and Mr. H. Rice, of Washington, D. C. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Emma Uhl, and Miss Julia Bradshaw, and the groom by Mr. John J. Moritz, of Louisville, and Mr. John Meyer. They stood beneath a canopy of smilax and asparagus vine, which was between the windows and placed at the back was an effective bank of palms and ferns. In the room were quatities of asters. The bride wore a handsome gown of white brocaded silk, trimmed with pearls and ribbon, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Uhl wore a white China silk gown trimmed with pearls and lace, and carried a bunch of Marechal Niel roses. Miss Bradshaw's gown was of white silk crepe and lace, and her bouquet was also of Marechal Niel roses. After the marriage a reception to a large number of friends was held from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Ubl and Mrs. and Miss Roth, the mother and sister of the groom, assisted in receiving the guests with the bridal party. Montani's orchestra furnished the music for the ceremony and for the reception. Both bride and groom were the recipients of numerous handsome gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Roth will remain here a few days with relatives before going to their home in Louisville, Among the guests from abroad were Mrs. Roth, Miss Amalia Roth and Mr. Albert J. Roth, the mother, sister and brother of the groom, from Louisville.

of Indiana are known far and near. I regret there are a few whose ears have grown so fastidious that the name offends, but, as for me, I love the name and honor it. It is the synonym of sturdy manhood, untiring energy, sterling integrity, unflinching courage, and a hospitality so broad and generous that has not its superior in all the world. It was the strong right arm of the 'Hoosier' that felled the forest, bridged the river, pushed forward roads over bill, through prairie and marsh, and laid the foundation of an empire in the grandeur of their State. We love him who can paint the picture of the humble life; find a poem in 'the simple annals of the poor.' and sing the sacred home songs of his people. None other has ever done this better than the Hoosier poet-James Whitcomb

Riley, of Indiana." The reception of the Hoosier poet was nothing short of an ovation. Cheers followed cheers. He was compelled to mount a chair, and, after a few remarks acknowlappeared to be caused by the burning of a edging the greeting, he recite then the large dwelling occupied by a gardener. first is on the punkin and the folder in

S. PENNSYLVAN IA ST the shock." The enthusiasm gathered force and spilled over a little at the end of every line, and he was unusually successful in making himself heard, though at the expense of his throat. When he finished the place last night at the family residence, cheering was tumultuous, and continued until the Governor explained that the effort had overtaxed Mr. Kiley's voice and he could not respond.

Governor Matthews then handsomely referred to Hon. Richard W. Thompson, who was detained by feebleness. He said: "I regret there is another absent from our programme, Hon. R. W. Thompson. One who through his four score years reached back to the days when Clay, and Webster, and Calhoun were in their glory, bridging over the stirring times of Morton and Hendricks, in which he played a leading part-a gentleman of the old school, a nobie soul, endeared to us all by his eloquence, his ability, his honesty and the complete life of an honored man. To-day in his age and sickness we will wish him well, and that years may yet be spared to a noble and useful life." Next the Governor introduced President Palmer, of the national commission, who spoke wittily and gracefully. Mr. Dongins Sherley was then called upon as a citizen of Kentucky, and in a two minutes' talk created much amusement. A sober turn was next given affairs by the Governor reading aloud a message asking friends of Dr. J. R. Adams and Kate Adams, of Petersburg, to notify them of the sudden death of Howard Adams, a relative, at the Arlington House, in Chicago, The crowd resounded with calls for ex-Speaker Reed, who was supposed to be in the andience, but was not, and then for the venerable Fred Douglass, the negro orator. The latter arose and bowed, but refused to sneak. The "Hoosier Nightingales" sang again and the Governor and staff, Messrs, Harrison, Riley and Sherley spent an hour shaking thousands of hands. Lunch was then served upstairs. The Governor was the recipient of several handsome bonquets and a large basket of California fruits, nuts and wine from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wiggins, now of Pasadena, but formerly of Richmond.
